

Attendance Policy

Purpose

Attendance records help ensure operational continuity. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Attendance

Employees should mark attendance before 9:15 AM using the attendance system. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Late Arrival

More than three late arrivals in a month automatically notify the reporting manager. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Remote Attendance

Employees working remotely must check in before 9:30 AM. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Absence

Unreported absence for two consecutive working days may trigger HR follow-up. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Records

Attendance records are retained for audit purposes. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.