

WFH Policy

Purpose

Defines eligibility and expectations for remote work. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Eligibility

Employees may work from home up to two days per week with manager approval. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Working Hours

Remote employees follow working hours from 10:00 AM to 7:00 PM and must remain available during those hours. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Communication

Employees should respond promptly on official communication channels. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Equipment

Only company-issued devices may be used for official work. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.

Security

Sensitive files should not be stored on personal devices. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance. This policy applies to all full-time employees unless an exception is approved in writing by Human Resources. Managers are responsible for communicating these guidelines and employees are expected to comply with them. Failure to follow the policy may result in corrective action depending on the circumstances. These guidelines are reviewed periodically to ensure operational consistency and regulatory compliance.